The programme, too, was one well suited to bring out the many pleasing qualities, until it was difficult to tell in just which of the many charming numbers the singer was at her best. At the close of the third number, Rossini's "Una Voca Poco Fa." the audience greeted the singer with a perfect storm of applause, but the enthusiasm elicited by this number was as its feeting finale to respect to the singer with a perfect storm of applause, but the enthusiasm elicited by this number was as clously responded with the ever-popular "Comin' Thro' the Rye" in truly artistic fashion, making a fitting finale to an evening's programme than which there could be no better anywhere. by the bogus assessor who began his rounds simultaneously, forced his way through several houses and invariably took away money or articles of value as mementoes of his visits.

Since the expose of this man's operations, in the newspapers, the real assessors have been treated with scorn and suspicion by housewives. Where they have been treated with scorn and suspicion by housewives. Where they have been able to get anyone to the door they have had to make their inquiries through cracks not over two inches. The big books, two feet long and a foot wide, containing plats of the property in each block, which they carry should be credentials enough to inspire confidence, but lone women are unwilling to take any chances.

The improvement assessor, who frequently follows the assessor of personal property, is distrusted from the start.

"One assessor has been around," the wo-men argue, "and this man must be the imposter we read about in the papers. Hasn't he a sneaking, hang-dog look? Anyone could tell that he is a criminal by glanging at him.

GUILTY OF MURDER SAYS THE ROSE JURY

ourt, and then read aloud by the clerk Attorney Christensen asked that the jury be polled and it was ordered by the court. After the jurors had been excused Mr. Rider handed a resolution to the bailiff with the request that it be read. It expressed the hearty thanks of the jurors for the courteous treat-ment of the court and all others with whom they had come in contact during their service on the case. Judge Morse set Monday morning at 10 o'clock as the hour for passing sen-tence upon the prisoner. Rose was placed in a carriage and hurried back to his cell in the county jail. The arguments in the Rose murder trial were concluded yesterday afternoon and the case submitted into the hands of the jury with the court's instructions at just one minute before 4 o'clock. As the case neared its close the prisoner became still more of an enigma to all who know the facts of the cruel crime and the murderer's minute description of all its details. While District Attorney Elchnor made the closing argument to the jury Rose sat in his chair and perused a newspaper in apparent com-plete oblivion to his surroundings. The words of the District Attorney were loud, as his arguments were forceful, but they received not the slightest at tention from the confessed uxoricide.

The arguments on both sides were forcible and strong, and a client with re-tained counsel of his own and a desire tained counsel of his own and a desire to be freed could not have been more ably defended. As Attorney Christensen pleaded for the prisoner tears welled in the eyes of three different jurors and ran down their cheeks. An immense crowd thronged the courtroom and listened greedily to every word on both sides, and after the jury had retired many of the curious gathered in the corridors and remained about until the offices in the mained about until the offices in the joint building had closed.

SMITH USED PLAIN WORDS. Assistant County Attorney Dana T. Smith opened the arguments in behalf of the State. He reviewed the relations between Rose and his wife and told of his desertion of her in St. Louis, of sending for her later to come to Nevada sending for her later to come to Nevada and thence bringing her here to satisfy his suspicions as to her fidelity. "The next day after bringing her here we have him taking her into a winercom, deliberately placing temptation in her way. Who is this man that he should

Attorney Smith characterized the crime as most horrible and atrocious in every detail and referred to the murderer as a brute. He referred to the wounds in the woman's paims and asked if it we have moved to No. 12 West Third was not reasonable to suppose that she had offered some resistance, and that the injuries were the result of pulling the revolver through her hands. He told the jury that if there was any doubt in their minds as to the prisoner's sanity it was a fair and impartial trial and said that if they returned a verdict of guilty when the prisoner was instane they would be guilty of a judicial murder. Mr. Christensen spoke about temporary insanity and cited an instance of a man who, perfectly rational at all times, became a raving maniac if the name Brigham Young was mentioned in his hearing. Druehl & Franken, Druggists, Offer the People of Salt Lake City Vinol, a Body-Building, Strengthening and Healing Medicine.

We have a warranted cure for all thin, tired, debilitated, nervous people. It is Vinol, the most delicious and valuable preparation of cod liver oil ever discovered. Vinol tones up the diges-tive organs, cures all stomach troubles, makes rich, red blood, creates strength and builds up firm, healthy flesh.

Mr. Frank Graves, a lawyer of Winooski, Vt., writes: "Permit me to say a word indorsing the peerless merits of your cod liver oil preparation, Vinol. I was in very poor health when I bought my first bottle of Vinol, and I wish ev-ery suffered could see what it has done for me. It brought back my appetite, put flesh on my bones, strengthened my nervous system and toned up my whole physical condition. Vinol simply did wonders for me."

As we have so often stated in these columns, Vinol is the greatest strength creator known to medicine, and we do not believe there is a person in this vicinity but what Vinol will benefit at this season of the year; it never fails to make the weak strong and the sick

Vinol is just as valuable for all hacking coughs, chronic colds, throat and bronchial troubles, and we return mon-ey if it fails. Druehl & Franken and Smith Drug Co.
